GREAT VICTORY.

FLORES DEFEATED.

CABALLO AND 2 GUERILLAS, CHIEFTAINS KILLED.

Yesterday Buenos Ayres was thrown into the greatest state of excitement by the arrival of the Villa del Salto, all decked out with flags, bringing despatches to Son. Lamas, for which purpose she was specially sent up.

We have received a supplement of the 'Reforma' 16th inst., with the following news from Piedras, dated Tres Hoy, 15th, 4 p.m.

Flores engaged last night, but returned this morning with flying bodies of cavalry. Lucas Moreno run down upon him at once, lamming in the rebels at the dolle of Piedras where the ground is greatly cut up with ditches and fences. Colonel Valdez led on the left wing, and drove the insurgent thrillers before him, in confusion. Caballo's cavalry attempted to retire in good order, but the instrer of the line opened even them a galling musketry fire which threw them into a disgraceful panic. Ten rounds of artillery decided the day, and spread havoc among the fugitives.

Lucas Moreno, finding his force larger than necessary, sent the Union battalion into the centre where they arrived to-day. Then mounting all his infantry he prepared to make a hot pursuit of Flores and his discomfited followers.

This morning at daybreak, a band of 300 filibusters attempted to surprise the village of Carabones, but were driven off by a vigorous and deadly volley which obliged them to join the main body under Flores; they were pursued by the cavalry, and left 60 men dead on the field. The loss of the government in the last few days has been enormous; their fire has been very ineffective, compared to that of the Government troops who are more better armed.

Flores after his late defeat attempted to halt his forces at Arroyo Bruno, out on the opposite side of the river, but only fled without firing a shot. Valdez and Oldi's cavalry urged them vigorously and pursued in a terrible rout. Among the rebel chiefs killed are Col Flores and General Caballo. Leguna is in Canelones in communication with Lucas Moreno. It is thought he may have cut off several fugitives, being situated only 2 leagues from the field of battle. Moreno's division camp brings the news.

Official Report of Flores' Defeat.

Piedras, 15th.

Mr. Minister,

Yesterday I informed you that Flores and his gang were marching on the capital, by Las Piedras. I sent out a scout, who brought me back intelligence that they were assembled near the Arroyo Mulas. I consequently to drive them in towards the city, the better to cut them up among the quintas.

Flores, however, saw my object, and drawing his cavalry into open ground, made a fierce attack on my left, with 400 troopers, and on my right with 700; these attempted to outflank my force, and charged desperately three several times, but were as often gallantly repulsed. The enemy's left division—700—received a galling fire from the Maldonada battalion, after which Oldi came furiously to the charge, and broke and scattered the enemy in all directions, making terrible slaughter of the runaways.

On our right, Colonel Leguna attempted to outflank us, and with his rifle and artillery, caused a great loss to the filibusters, Colonel Valdez was equally distinguished. The rebels lost 300 killed and wounded. We lost Lieut. Marcos Perez and a few soldiers

LUCAS MORENO.

P.D.—All Flores' family surrendered as prisoners of war.

The Barracks Diligences.

The conveyances plying between the above named suburb and the city are being been notorious for irregularities and abuses. The drivers, coaches, animals, &c., are of the worst class, and the unhappy passengers suffer as much from the dangers of upset, want of lynch-pins, and imperfect training of the quadrupeds, as from the indecent conduct of the drivers. Every week we have of a casualty, though happily without serious consequences. Every day we have complaints of the annoyances occasioned by a spirit of rivalry between the various proprietors.

Last week one of these conductors of a human menagerie eluted his colleague with a cut of the whip, where upon the latter, descending from his elevated position, took up a stone and hurled it at his assailant. By great good luck the missile erred of its aim, is it never have killed one of the passengers by mistake. There is another danger, when these competitive drivers run races with their vehicles in the Calle Largo and we remember the death of a poor fellow tossed off the roof to the tick of his limbs or life. Sometimes the passengers are so exercised that it is perilous to walk, and the habit of smoking is highly offensive to ladies. A well dressed gentleman runs the gauntlet between some horses who are just beginning, or colonged children who inadvertantly pull his whiskers or play with his cravat. But these are evils of trifling import and difficult remedy.

The great fault of the Barracas diligences is the irregularity in starting. Some are off at the first of intervals, we sometimes see three leave together, and again may wait two hours until a complete cargo is secured. Sometimes we see the driver and conductor threaten and even use force to induce the driver a double fare induce him to set off, but at a funeral pace, and then, after a march of some hundred yards, the fellow comes to a standstill and leaves us at the point of departure.

The police regulation, of removing the Jesus del Monte Plaza Diligences to the Concepcion, was making matters worse, as it is rather too far to work from town. It is, however, to be hoped that the Chief of Police will shortly oblige the diligences to start from some yard, nearer the centre, at fixed hours. This would be a great boon to the public as well as to the proprietors, whose business would thus be doubled.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The rumour of the Cbacho having invaded San Juan is generally disbelieved, the only authority being the 'Eco de Cordoba,' edited by M. V., Carlos's brother. San Juan is at present well garrisoned with a regiment of lancers, a battalion of line [infantry], and some bodies of the National Guard.

Major Rickard has been requested by the President to undertake the instruction of the Rifle battalion of the line, of which he is named commander. Our distinguished countryman is well suited to the task, having gained some prizes and certificates at the Hythe School of Musketry, where he graduated on his late visit to England, by permission of the British Ministry of War.

The captain of the Spanish barque Amalia requests us to contradict a statement in one of our previous numbers, that the sum of $14,000 was demanded to send off an anchor, during the Santa Rosa gale. Our informant was mistaken, for it seems such a rent has been accomplished but once, in this century, by Dr. Lola Rodriguez, so that any question was utterly impossible.

A supplemental mail for the Kepler will be made up at the office to receive letters and papers received until 3 p.m. That steamer will not leave Montevideo before Sunday.

The papers was circulated that the auction of Peruvian Remedies had been stopped. This is positively untrue, and the sale will come off on the 20th inst. on Monday 20th inst.

Several families are now moving out to Belgrano, but we hear just now philanthropists about the high charge of the Northern Railway for season tickets, which me only $5 per cent. reduction. Mr. Draper's English seminary is a great boon to the district, where as many families seek a good education or their children.

Our French colleagues "lets the cat out of the bag" in regard to the opposition of the Western Railway. It will be remembered that the Directors published "floating" notices, offering excellent wages and diet to 200 Basques. M. Lelong states strangely enough that there was not a single applicant. "Les Trigers" shows that several called to inform the editor of the practical joke, for on application, they say the terms advertised were refused them.

The rectorship of the Tucuman National College is, we believe, still vacant, and in spite of Dr. Costa. It is worth 3000 silver a month, and affords a brilliant chance for a well-educated foreigner. The rumour of gold fields lately discovered in Mendoza are scarcely be received with implicit faith.

We were once taken in' by a similar story of Fray Mentos. The coal, about which so much is said in some provinces is perfectly useless, having been recently tested by the inspector-general of mines, and found to contain more than 75 per cent ashes.

The arrival of the Villa Salta was quite an event, yesterday. When she steamed into port, covered with flags, expectation was on tip-toe. The Ministers of War hied to the Capitania. The Tribunes and a crowd of boys rushed down the Mole; the Faina put off, but to all inquiries the only reply was, We come with private despatches, and have no news. At length the officer came ashore, and the unmanly crowd hissed him. It was rumoured that the Indians were hauled out in the Capitania to obtain what was supposed entry of Flores into Montevideo. But what woful faces were pulled when the despatches proved to be Caraballo and 200 filibusters were killed!

The anniversary of Pavon brought unlucky tidings for the peace of the Republic. Who is to blame?

HURRIED FOR COTTON.

We gladly find room for the following letter, which a gentleman has received from Manchester for last packet. The simple of cottonreferred to is from Catamarca belonging to Dr. Bernubo Ocampo.

COTTON SUPPLY ASSOCIATION,
Offices, No. 1 Nowall's Buildings,
Manchester, Aug. 7, 1869.

Dear Sir—I am greatly pleased in acknowledging the receipt of your favour of 27th June, containing a small sample of cotton, the quality of which is fully equal to what has been cleaned from the seed about 3s. per lb. I beg to inform you for your guidance that a fair seed-cotton will usually yield about 1 lb of cotton to 3 of seed. I am glad if you will inform me what character of plant has produced the sample sent you, if a tree or shrub; what height is the plant? The seed being different from either the New Orleans variety, which is white or greenish and mossy, or the Sea Island, which is black and clean, I enclose a few seeds of each.

I trust some of your merchants at Buenos Ayres will take the spirit and enterprise to develope the resources of your district as far as its capabilities for the growth of cotton relate to. The committee will be glad to hear from you in frequent correspondence, and consider your valuable co-operation an accession of strength.

I am, dear sir, yours respectfully,
ISAAC WATTS, Secretary.

PRINCELY MUNIFICENCE.

The Irish star re of Mercy acknowledge the donation of 5,000 dols. mje by baron Nauly, per W. Leslie, Esq., for the Orphan Asylum of the Female II spital. This is really an instance of open-handed liberality, equally worthy of the noble donor and of the above charitable institutions. The claims of the Irish Convent on the native and foreign public are undisputed, and it is only necessary to state that the Sisters give gratuitous instruction to 200 poor children of the city, and support, moreover, several Irish orphans. A refuge and domestic employment is never awanting and Irishmen seem to enjoy privileged health.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

We extract the following notice from the Montevideo papers, regarding it important to foreigners who may hold Oriental claims.

Notice to English and French claimants for losses by war.

The English and French claimants who have received bonds of the Consolidated Debt, and who have not yet placed them in the hands of their respective Commissioners are requested to do so without delay.

The English claimants are to address themselves for this purpose to Calle Rincon, No. 111, and the French claimants to Calle Cerrito, No. 189, from 12 o'clock till 2.

Lamentable Occurrence at Higuerita.

We have to learned the particulars of a fatal accident at Higuerita in which the Captain of the Port D. Hilario Redi, came to an untimely end, partly owing to his own carelessness, and still more to the stupidity of his attendants. It seems the ill fated gentleman went out on a fowling excursion, and in taking the gun from one of the boatmen it went off, lodging the contents in his thigh. The attendants immediately placed him in the boat, and proceeded to row back to Higuerites, Mr. Redi bleeding all the time profusely and the others unmindful to bandage the wound, in their ignorance of medical assistance. When they reached Higuerita, they found he had already died from hemorrhage. Mr. Redi was a native of Buenos Ayres, of English descent, and leaves a brother. He was much respected as a private citizen and public official.

Extraordinary Story

A native man, well dressed, with gold watch and chain, pumboos cane, &c., riding a rather poor horse, arrived the other night at an Irishman's puesto, near the Guardia del Monte, and asked leave to stop all night. The following day this Portefio visitor informed his Hibernian host that he was a stranger in those parts, having recently rented land for 15 flocks of sheep, of Sr. Torrero, at the rate of ten thousand dollars per month, until after shearing: that he was waiting for some of the flocks to arrive, as they had left the Baradero—where he had a large estancia—some ten days previously—but, behold an Irishman, named William Mooney, a medianero, whom he was expecting also with his flocks. For two days this Portefio native supped at the Irishman's house, adapting himself wonderfully to the Irish mode of living in the camp, that is to say, drinking ten half a dozen of times daily with friends, and eating times fresh bread, and whiling away the monotonous hours smoking out of some of Mr. Mooney's pipes and Yankee cut. Now and then the poor fellow would take up the "Standard," and spoke in the very highest terms of the Irishman, as he suggested to the Irishman the idea. A matter of course, Don Juan at once thought that he was the very man for the 'gentleman' could do. Don Juan, who is as decent a man as ever stepped the Irish native Republic of Ireland, et senor a horse, which he is very feeding on maize for the last 12 months. The native gentleman expressed his thanks, and left the house, but returned any three men, friends of his, to whom he would at once give flocks of sheep on halves.

The Irish gentleman friend then set out for the Guardia Monte and put up at Don Pedro the Basque's, which is the best fonda in the town. Since the day the native left there never was a more lively handed traveller in that place—every man, woman and child, that could be found within the precincts of Don Basque's fonda was called in and treated. Cheer, cana, and beer flowed in streams; and as for cigars, all the Havanas and Manillas in the town and Special Cooks were called in to prepare dinners for the friends of el Senor Mooney. Every native mansion was ransacked for Irish whiskey and offering day and a half, this individual held away in the fonda, whereupon ordering a horse to be got ready for him to ride until he returned, he set out amidst the prayers and benedictions of an admiring multitude of Caseros and Peones en. About sundown, he reached the house of Don Juan, and appeared greatly dejected. Don Juan did his best to cheer up his distinguished guest, but all to no purpose. He stopped that night and the next day with Don Juan, and at last, asked Don Juan to accompany him to a place where "mi amigo Mooney" was. Don Juan, who is ever ready to oblige, at once consented, and off they went to Lobos. On the road every one was stopped to know if they had herd of the 15 flocks, but nobody was known of them. They arrived at Lobos, and put up at the best hotel there, treated Don Juan, and never ceased to ask, "Have you seen Mooney?" "Have you seen Mooney?" "Have you seen Mooney?" Mooney, Mooney, Mooney, was the whole theme of Lobos on a Sunday, and if report be true, the unlucky Mooney was about to wait on him. El Senor, however, thoroughly popularity ridiculous; and, telling Don Juan that he must go to the lugazlo to send orders to the absconded Mooney, left him and his friend in the fonda. Don Juan waited, waited, and waited; and at last began to get impatient; so thinking El Sr. was probably stopping to dine with the judge, went to look after him, but from that day to this he has never seen a sight of him fellow nor his mares, red horse, nor well-loaded revolver. Well, perhaps the fellow is looking for his mediancro, Mooney, and his fifteen flocks of sheep. So Don Juan prepares to return home: he was quietly walking his horse out of the yard, when the fondero presented him bills. We have not heard what it amounted to but believe that the wool money of a nice point of sheep would hardly cover the extravagant hospitality of el Senor.

We call attention to the above story, which, we regret to say, is founded on fact, and proves what a well-dressed native can do with an honest open-hearted Irishman.

MITRE.
VELEZ SARSFIELD

Extract from Manbaitan's Letter:

"I do not blame the real sentence of England for desiring the freedom of the South. The true policy of Great Britain would have been to have pitched in at first. The product as well as the wealth of the Republics are about 200 millions of pounds sterling. In peace we had over 300 millions of Southier produce, or rate for it, or return goods, or in some large part it rough New York city long. We clipped off this from 100 to 150 millions a month. Unlike you but any New Yorker, who is not a fool, is going to give up the lucrative trade? Bah! Great Britain might have lent it if she had managed right; but it looks to me now that Palmerston or Russell is a fit representative of the dog who was crossing a river, and saw the shadow of the cheese in his own mouth, opened it to get it, and both cheese and shadow, and came very near losing drowned for his short-sightedness. So with England, she will lose both substance and shadow.

"Now York city will get back the trade again. It is useless talking. Our business interests of members have also large connections South. They have kept them up through the war. There is a desperate part to play. They will certainly use their influence to crush this rebellion out as speedily as possible. They believe it will be done. At the same time they want to get back their old customers again; and they would not keep them unless all three years they talked South, nodded heads and said, 'We are all right.' These Abolitionists ought to be put down.' 'Old Abe is trampling upon the liberties of the South,' or equally ridiculous generalities, that are to attract to keep on the right side, so as to come in for our share of the Southern trade when the South is restored.' These are cringe persons who are not governed by any such motives. All the great English houses are against the Confederate cause. If the South had succeeded, as agents of London houses they would have had millions pass through their own hands, and, of course, would not quarrel in advance with what may be bread and butter.

"New York and London both harmonies in regard to the south. It is a free market for the merchants of either section to be 'home' for.

"One of the humorous proceedings is the case of the officers who were in command of the army and of the fleets in this manner last week during the absence of Seward. They have all called the President on the 16th of July,' that he is at from all late retirement. Admiral Farragut—Lieutenant-General Grant, Major Brigadier General Williams Harney, Brevet Brigadier General Harvey Brown, Colonel of the 6th Artillery; Colonel Austin, 1st Artillery; Colonel Charles S. Merchant, 4th Artillery; and Lieutenant Colonel Martin Burke, 3d Artillery, who have all been appointed Major-General, and then retired. Wool is the oldest general in the service, except Harney. Harvey Brown is the general in command at Sackett's Harbor, where Burke commanded at Fort La Fayette. Merchant at Green's Island. All are retired. Wool over. This is a warning to General Dix and General Canby not to trifle or fool with a mob.

"Governor Seymour is offering a reward for Jeff Davis. It is not likely to have the draft discontinued. He says that it enforced all the Germans went home. He also sent a dispatch to the President, that I have had serious apprehensions that the Irish servant girls will, in case the draft is enforced, burn down their masters' houses. The President's reply has not been received, but there is no doubt he will reply to Seymour that he will not imperil his own course, and be applicable to the Irish girls. I think the Governor will have a row with these girls.

"We make up our accounts and balance our books in this country on the first of July every years. Secretary Chase's report for the fiscal year ended on June 30th, 1869, and showed the United States owed on that date $2,007,274,366 dollars. It is the interest on this for such a country as ours no trouble by a long way. The items of dollars I—What is that? It is my pour as well be five thousand millions—and it will be, if the Southern rebels, when they become loyal and get back into the Halls of Congress, will not vote a dollar that shall be paid. It will have to be done, too, at this point a dollar or debt or interest will be paid by the United States! We have got to have a national debt, and that we out had one 20 years ago this civil war would never have happened. Now, when we get out of war, we have got something that is likely to be permanent.

"The rumour at the City Hall look that Seymour was sewed. Probably they flow all the entrances and gates, and are accompanied by real United states soldiers. They look dangerous, and no mistake. Encouraging to such folks."

PENAGUA IN SAN JUAN.

100 FILIBUSTERS IN ARMS.

The 'Cuyo' brings bad news. The blacks has returned to the Llanos and effected two companies of the 6th or so, in his raid towards San Juan. The Llanos' adds that Ontiveros (reported as) was besieging Rioja, but that it is continued.

Captain Furque, writing to Gov. Sarmiento, under date Valle Fertil, 22d ult, states that he went in pursuit of Elizondo's guerillas, with a force of 400 militia. The filibusters folgned retreat, and receiving reinforcements, attacked him with 800 men. The fight lasted an hour and a half, both sides claiming the victory. About 60 were killed on both sides. Our troops being out of ammunition, and the horses tired, retreat was necessary, to avoid being cut off by the filibusters, who now exceed 1000 in number, and are commanded by the Chacho, Puebla, Elizondo and others.

In a letter two days later he says:

I have just arrived at the Quebrado, having retreated from Valle Fertil where the rebels mustered over 1,000 strong; they may give trouble if necessary, but I will be on hand. I was out off from Col. Arredondo's division, and resolved to march to San Juan for security of that town, and of our force, in case the Chacho should pursue us. I am very much afraid that the supplies you sent us will fall into his hands. If possible I would like to join Arredondo near Jachal, but meantime I advise your Ex. to look out for the safety of San Juan city.

FLORES' DEFEAT.

We have been requested to publish the following extract of a letter in Spanish, details will be found in another column.

Montevideo, Setiembre 16 de 1863.

(10 de la noche.)

Estimado amigoet

Aprovecho la salida del vapor de guerra «Villa del Salto» que va con destino a este puerto para participarle la fausta nueva de la completa derrota que las armas nacionales han hecho sufrir hoy, en las inmediaciones de la capital, á las bandas armadas de los que osaron insultar con su presencia al frente de Montevideo. la Majestad de la ley y los altos respetos que se deben á un pueblo civilizado y patriótico.

Presento á Ud. amigo y buen servidor de este paisy y de su Gobierno, mis sinceras felicitaciones.

New Zealand.

The accounts from the Northern Island of New Zealand represent the natives in a state of anarchy. The report of the murder of two officers and six soldiers of the Fifty-seventh regiment is confirmed. They had apparently, been shot down without a moment's notice, and the bodies were terribly mutilated. On the 7 even ing chinw New Plymouth, the alarm gun was fired, and messengers were dispatched to bring into town all those who were out on their little farms and at work in the Bush. A Gazette was published calling out the militia and warning the people not to go further than a mile stockade at night. Fully 200 militia and volunteers were told off for patrol duty.

The London "Times" says: It is probable that at this very moment the Governor-general of New Zealand is engaged in another Maori war. After all that has passed, the thing may appear incredible; but it is almost certain, and what is more, our present information does not enable us to point out how it could have been avoided. Letters received yesterday, state that the natives appear willing to continue hostilities to the old theatre, Taranaki; and unless further compulsions exist, it is improbable that any attack will be made upon Auckland. Fully 200,000 natives are located in the country between Auckland and Taranaki, and these tribes are openly hostile to the Europeans. Apart from the native difficulties, the war is a most unpopular one. The middle island produces, being untrammeled with native affairs, are going rapidly ahead.

Flores' Defeat confirmed.

The Congueso arrived yesterday evening from Colonia, confirming the glorious intelligence just received, of Flores' utter defeat.

MISCELLANY.

A Remarkable Calm on the Atlantic.—The vessels which arrived at Greenock on Monday report the calm which has been so severe as a subject for days, without a breath of wind and scarcely any perceptible swell; and one ship was becalmed for 14 days about 150 miles off the Irish coast, a remarkable occurrence in a quarter of the globe notorious for the opposite extreme of weather. The quiet and unruffled appearance of the ocean is described to have been such as has seldom if ever been witnessed in these latitudes by the most experienced ship-master. This calm must have detained a number of outward bound ships, but a breeze having set in strong from the west all vessels are expected in the Channel and will be in the Clyde in a day or two. On Tuesday we had an instalment of them in the arrival of no fewer than seven large vessels.—Glasgow Herald.

The Pythonesa.—The pythoness which was more than a nine days' wonder last year, is dead. She had reached all told 24 weeks, and in the course of last Wednesday week she quietly expired. On opening her she was found full of eggs some of the latter had been laid, and extremely like it in appearance. It is probable that her efforts to deposit these eggs were the cause of her death; but it is pretty certain that she never completely recovered from her illness last year, when she performed the operation of incubation for a long time, and abstained from food for thirty-five weeks. The death of this serpent is a great loss to the Zoological Gardens. She was obtained in Africa in 1849, and was the largest pythe in Europe.

The House of Commons. Several changes have taken place in the House of Commons during the session which is now drawing to a close. A day or two after the assembly of Parliament the Hon. Colonel Bernard, member for Bandon, died and was succeeded by Mr Bernard, his son. For Lt. burn Mr. Darcy was elected, in the room of Mr. Richardson, but being unseated, Mr. Verner was elected. The Hon. General Upton, on succeeding to the Irish peerage as Viscount Templetown, resigned a seat in the representation of Antrim, and Mr. O'Neill was elected. Mr. Hamilton, K.C., resigned his representation of the county of Dublin, and was succeeded by his son, Mr. Ion Hamilton. Early in May Mr. O'Donoghue, the director general for England was elected for Tralee, in the room of Mr. Daniel O Connell. Late in May Mr. Tottenham resigned the representation of New Ross, and was succeeded by Col. Tottenham. Early in June Sir John Arnot retired from the representation of Kilmarnock, and was succeeded by Mr. George Colebrooke. The representation of the county of Clare is at present vacant by the death of Mr. F. M. Calcutt.

An Inconsiderate Waterloo.—One of these irreparable losses, my fellow student, and worthy comrade, Lord Hay. I must say a few words of the day before the battle of Quatre Bras, Hay, who was in love with a young lady, entrusted his secret to me. He said he felt a presentiment that he would not survive the first action with the enemy, and giving me a gold chain for the object of his affection, and a sword and sash for myself, begged me to act as his valet, as there's tall on the 15th June. I shook him warmly by the hand; in less than 12 hours he was buried near the spot where he had slept. Hay had made some young man, fond of show and dress, and it was partly attributable to this that he met his death. Mounted on the charger of his master, he sallied out and dashed out in a fancy uniform, he was shot early in the action by some straggler belonging to the enemy who probably took him for a superior officer Strange to say, his presentiment came true in two respects. First, he met an early death, and next, as far as he an intimated, trace of him or his proper y remained His servant, a most faithful fellow, lost his baggage and with his family, he was obliged to leave by the, not only of consanguinity, but of love, did not po sess the slightest relic of the departed young hero I recovered this at the end of a long and lively pros-ecting the sword to Hay's brother, the late Lord Errell, and his aunt to his sister. A few months afterwards, I gave the watch to a fair young and beautiful girl the chain that had been entrusted to me, and received very thanks and those of her parents for having thus faithfully executed the commission of my old comrade.—Lord W. Lennox's Reminiscences.

LOCAL EVENTS.

GROSS MISCONDUCT.—The

gentlemen who sympathize with General Flores in this city, displayed their natural tendencies and refined education, by heaping insolent epithets on the officer of the "Villa Salto." Some foreign gentlemen cried 'shame,' but these fellows, of 'Tribuno' taste, know not what shame is.

THE HIRING SYSTEM.—We understand that the National Government is authorised to spend $o,0008 in the creation of a national mint. It is proposed to establish it at Cam de Gonalo, where there is every convenience

ONSTITUTIONAL EDUCATION —The Argentine Government anxious that all the senators and deputies should be thoroughly acquainted with the constitution of a country which is now desolated by civil war, has ordered 500 copies of M. Camillia's translation of Story on the Constitution. We hear that the book is in the form of questing and answer, and will be adapted to the capacities of the Legislators.

INSPECTOR OF ROADS. Don Santiago Del Carril has been appointed Inspector of roads and bridge for the north-ern part of the Republic, that is to say from the city of Rosario to Tucuman, and is to receive four silver dollars per league.

CUSTOM-HOUSE COLLECTOR —Mr Rafael Arriola has been appointed Custom house collector in Goya in room of last Wednesday week she quietly expired. On opening her she was found full of eggs some of the latter had been laid, and extremely like it in appearance.
